ABOUT ME

Who Am I Before?

I'm a technology enthusiast, learning the technology since I was on Elementary School. I was working synonymous with online games, forums and have strong influence with hacker and cracker. I learned everything from the internet, at that time I was a 'leecher cracker' which I only modified other people's scripts to learn.

Various programming languages used such as assembly for desktop-based games, C, Java, Action scripts for games with `.swf format` like facebook games etc. I mostly modified and created scripts for online games, or what is commonly called 'cheats'. I'm using internet cafe computer to proceeds the sale of the script, because at that time I did not have an adequate computer to do scripting and software installment which need a middle range to high range computer, and not to mention the risk of hack or virus when working using personal PC.

Who Am I Now?

Beside my background when I was a child who enjoy the results of programs that people make and try to find weaknesses, but now I'm no longer a 'Connoisseur', but a 'Maker'. I'm a programmer from Indonesia, I started my career as a web developer since 2014 as a thesis freelancer. From 2014 until now, I've worked on hundreds of projects for Local companies and International Companies. I'm experties on PHP, JS, TS, and Dart as my main language.

Papernotes

I still have a lot of portfolios and documentation about the projects I've worked on. But I can't include them all here. For more details, you can ask during the interview session.

I like to explore something new, I can work while learning something new quickly, as long as you let me. so don't worry about tech updates, cause I can understand everything fast.
